Cottage village Greenfield

Moscow, Moscow region, Istra urban district, Greenfield cottage village

Description

The Greenfield cottage community is a cottage village seamlessly integrated into its natural surroundings, with a private road through a picturesque forest, a lake with a beach and island, and a park with a giant chess set in the center. This gated community covers 127 hectares, where greenery outweighs buildings: houses, alleys, a boulevard, and playgrounds are immersed in dense foliage.

In the center of Greenfield is a lake with a beach and a picturesque island. On the shore, the Villagio restaurant offers a terrace, a summer pavilion, and cozy gazebos. Residents enjoy breakfast by the water, relaxing on the beach, and playing volleyball on a special court with bleachers.

The park in the center of the community is surrounded by walls with turrets reminiscent of chess rooks. In the square in front of the restaurant, to the left of the fountain, a giant park chess set has been installed—like those found in the best parks in Switzerland. This is not just a striking decoration, but a real piece of equipment for playing.

Greenfield has two entrances. The first is a private scenic forest road leading to the New Riga Outlet. The second, from the Millennium Park and Sherwood communities, provides quick access to the city center.
