Description

Rising 38 floors above Bangkok's most dynamic corridor, this penthouse at Ramada Plaza By Wyndham Sukhumvit 48 isn't just a home — it's a statement. Floor-to-ceiling windows frame an uninterrupted panorama of the city skyline, stretching from the glittering towers of central Bangkok to the serpentine curves of the Chao Phraya River. At sunset, the entire horizon becomes yours. At 200 square metres with a sprawling 46-square-metre private terrace, this is space most Bangkok condominiums can only dream of. Three bedrooms and four marble-clad bathrooms are finished to a standard that matches the Wyndham name — a globally recognised brand synonymous with refined hospitality. Every detail, from the Italian marble kitchen island to the crystal chandeliers overlooking a ten-seat dining table, has been curated for those who refuse to compromise. This is a branded residence with substance. Wyndham hotel services are at your fingertips — concierge, housekeeping, a sky lounge, infinity pool, and 24-hour security. Yet you own the title outright, with full foreign freehold eligibility under the Thai Condominium Act. It's the best of hotel living with the permanence of ownership. Step outside your door and Bangkok's pulse is immediate. BTS On Nut station is a three-minute walk. The vibrant energy of Sukhumvit — world-class dining, international schools, premium healthcare — unfolds in every direction. Yet up here, on the 38th floor, the city feels like a painting you observe from above, not noise you endure. Properties like this don't wait. Owners like this rarely sell. This is your window.
