Description

The residential complex "1st Kolobovsky Pereulok, 18" is located in the prestigious Tverskoy District of Moscow's Central Administrative District, providing residents with a high level of status and comfort. The building is a six-story monolithic building with reinforced concrete floors, constructed in 2000. The club-style layout of the building, which comprises 32 apartments and four entrances, guarantees a high level of privacy for each resident.

Architecture and Engineering Solutions: The building is custom-designed. Four passenger elevators are installed, as well as modern engineering systems, including exhaust ventilation and an automatic fire suppression system. Ceiling heights reach up to 3 meters.

Trubnaya metro station is just a four-minute walk away, and Tsvetnoy Bulvar is a six-minute walk away. Seven kindergartens, 11 schools, and numerous shops, cafes, and ATMs are within walking distance. The adjacent area is equipped with a playground.

The building is managed by the "Harmony" Homeowners' Association, which ensures high-quality maintenance and the upkeep of the common property.
